Voisin Law expands commercial property team with appointment of Advocate Emma Baker | 1

Voisin Law has strengthened its property team with the addition of Emma Baker, a Senior Associate specialising in commercial property.

Emma, a Jersey Advocate, brings eight years of commercial property experience with over five of those being gained in Jersey. She has extensive experience on assisting owners, occupiers, investors and developers on all areas of Jersey commercial property law including commercial acquisitions and disposals, leases, property finance, property developments, building contracts and Planning applications, agreements and appeals.

Kate Anderson, Managing Partner said "Voisin Law has over 150 years experience in advising upon Jersey property law and prides itself on providing reassuringly clear and pragmatic advice in a responsive client focussed manner. Emma's experience will further enhance Voisin Law's ability to do this, ensuring that Voisin Law remains a leader in its field."

Speaking about her new role, in which she will act in a wide range of commercial property matters, Emma said "I am delighted to be joining the property team of a well-respected and established law firm. I look forward to delivering the responsive and dynamic service Voisin Law is renowned for, whilst contributing towards the success of the firm with the help and support of my colleagues."

Natalie Harris, Partner and Head of Voisin Law's property team said "We are delighted to have Emma join our growing team. She is an experienced commercial property lawyer with extensive knowledge in this area. Her personal approach and considerable expertise will be a great asset. This expansion to our team will strengthen our ability to provide exceptional services for commercial and residential property clients in Jersey."
