VOISIN LAW

Voisin law firm to attend European conference on building a future-proof professional firm | 1

Advocate Clare Nicolle, partner at Voisin Law will be in Prague from 9-11 May for the Alliott Group 2018 Europe, Middle East & Africa Regional Conference.

With a growing number of clients requiring advice on how to take advantage of the investment and growth opportunities offered by the global economy, membership of Alliott Group is an important part of our firm's international strategy.

Themed 'Building a Future-Proof Professional Firm', the conference, hosted by leading international alliance Alliott Group, will be attended by over 90 accountants and lawyers from 31 countries worldwide.

Participation in the conference enables us to forge closer relationships with Alliott Group affiliated members who will serve our clients internationally when required. It will also provide powerful insights into the professional services market which is changing at an unprecedented pace and into the key business trends which are likely to impact our clients within the next one to five years. The learning and exchange that occurs during the conference will help our firm to future-proof client services and to establish a more visible employer brand that ensures the firm can compete for the brightest and most talented people in our local workforce.

Commenting on the event Georgina Jeffries Shelton, Head of Marketing said, "While we are acutely aware of the need to meet the evolving needs of our clients, we are looking forward to hearing tips from leading consultants in the world of business on how we can offer our clients a more collaborative approach and more commercially focused advice. We are also looking forward to learning valuable market insights and gaining connections that will improve our offering and help our clients to protect and grow their businesses in the years ahead."

Other topics on the agenda include practical insights in compliance with the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), the impact of U.S. tax reform on foreign nationals and businesses, the international M&A landscape, and the seismic changes taking place in international tax and how they impact internationally focused businesses and high net worth individuals.
